SMASH THAT DRUM.

There is a general howl of indignation at the disturbance created about the streets at half past five o'clock every morning by the marching out of troops with a tin pot fife and drum band. This is an hour at which many people are getting their most refreshing slumber of the night, and there are but few whose avocations require them to rise before six o'clock. In the case of people in poor health, and lately there has been a great deal of sickness, the noise is an outrage. The stability of the republic surely does not depend upon drilling the garrison in this species of Chinese tactics. To disturb the peaceful inhabitants unnecessarily cannot be useful in the maintenance of peace. Let the commander-in-chief call off the timbrels and tom-toms if he desires the people to remain loyal. There will be a frightful insurrection one of these days against this oppression of the quiet-loving public ear.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION.

According to the Collector-General's report for 1894, the excess of arrivals of Chinese over departures was but 189, although he states it was 191. In his passenger statistics he reports arrivals: males 1,666, females 138, children 50, a total of 1,854; and departures: males 1,015, females 71, children 179, a total of 1,265. This makes the excess 189. Perhaps if the Collector-General's statistics were criticized by an expert, many discrepancies of a similar nature would be discovered. A large amount of money is handled in the Chinese immigration business, and it is important to the public that the records be kept with strict correctness. Here is a table of the receipts of the Government from this source last year:

Passports at $1 each departure	$ 1,015
Arrivals, permits $5	6,330
Stamps on say 600 bonds	600
Personal tax on each departure	5,975
Children departing $1 each	179
Custom House certificates to departing six months' residents at $1 each	600
	$13,799

Rather a handsome revenue for this people to pay on 2719 of them, and yet their numbers increased by only 189. A large sum of money is paid into the Custom House for certificates to departing men who have resided here six months, in fees for the cancellations of their bonds as required by the law. No statement is made by the Collector-General of this amount, but it is fair to presume that it is included under the head of "fees." As it is a realization to the Government on which there is no check, further than that of the receiver's conscience, would it not be well that the Collector-General keep a separate account of this receipt? Then a check could be had on it through the Chinese Bureau.

The Collector-General's suggestion to gather the whole shooting match of the Chinese Bureau under his wing is not wise. Mr. Castle is a man of unsullied integrity, and would exonerate any of his deputies whom he found crooked. Yet he ought to look beyond the present, remembering that he may not be followed by one as strictly honorable as he is, and he should be the last one to suggest removing a system of checks. On the contrary, let the system be extended. The Custom House, the Consulate at Hongkong and the Chinese Bureau should be set one against the other in every possible manner. Let each watch the other and then it will take the united vigilance of all of them to circumvent the wily Chinese when his mind is bent on getting into Hawaii.

OBSERVATIONS.

It is said that no woman in Honolulu can keep a secret and only a few men, none of whom are in the present legislature.

Five doctors at the Board of Health meeting all smoked cigars. It would be difficult to get a lecturer for the public schools on Richardson's anti-narcotic doctrines in the Honolulu faculty.

Now that Minister Castle has been confirmed let us hope there will be an end to the secret session humbug. The votes and proceedings of these star-chamber caucuses are always known to Tom, Dick and Harry a few minutes after the doors are open, if not sooner.

It is probable that the Senate will change the appropriation for a steel bridge over the Nuuanu stream, making it for a bridge of native stone. This would be a good move, as it would give employment to home labor, and a well-built stone bridge would last for ages.

A morning contemporary says that dress suits and evening dresses will be in order at the Marquardt's concerts. We were always under the impression that when a man paid his dollar for a seat he did not enter into a contract to wear a dress suit. White suits are much more comfortable in this climate, and those who wear them are quite as respectable as some of those who aim to set the fashions here, if not more so.

While the Senate is awaiting the action of the House on the land and other bills what is the matter with investigating the enormous amounts paid out through the Attorney-General's and other departments for expenses incidental to the suppression of the late uprising? This would be particularly appropriate now that a bill is before both Houses asking for an additional sum of $40,000 for the Attorney-General's department.

CABLE TALK.

English and Colonial dispatches by the Sydney mail indicate that the Pacific cable question is warming up. The London Times urges the Premier to assent to the proposals of the Ottawa conference, saying that the Colonies have already taken their part in welding the Empire, and Colonial taxpayers are bearing their burdens. It urges an Imperial expenditure of $500,000 a year on Pacific steamers and cable, which would be amply repaid by improved communication, and would strengthen the attachment of the Colonies and develop British influence in the Pacific. On the other hand, some of the Australian Colonies are hesitating about giving their assent to a proposal from Premier Turner of Victoria that the Agents General should be instructed to urge the Pacific cable question on the Imperial authorities. There is no doubt, however, that the matter of a British cable has decidedly progressed within a year past. What concerns us here most is whether any cable that will include Hawaii in its route is within measurable distance of consummation.

Timely Topics

June 26, 1895.

INTO the soft, warm light of the drawing-room the heavy odors from the conservatory floated and filled the place as with a fog of flowers.

Beneath the crystal chandelier, which shone in the mellow light as a suspended rainbow in an atmosphere of gold, stood a fair, pale girl, erect, imperious, beautiful.

Shrinking away into the shadows was the object of it. It was a young man in a red waistcoat, with other things to match.

He had told her of his love for her, of his devotion to her; of his worship, of the dear desire of his heart to make her his own, and in the midst of it she stopped him suddenly.

"Enough," she exclaimed. "Enough! I will not listen to another word."

"Hear me out," he pleaded. "Hear me out."

"Never," she laughed, scornfully, "but I will take great pleasure in seeing you out," and the shadows closed around that shrinking youth like the deadly arms of the octopus.

Slowly and sadly he mounted his wheel and rode forth into the cold, cold world of this city. In spite of our Paradise-of-the-Pacific climate it had been a cold day for him and he could not get rid of a crushed-strawberry-and-ice-cream feeling in the region of his heart which would not away.

Passing the Hawaiian Hardware Company's store the brilliant scintillations from the electric globes on the Monarch bicycle in their window attracted his attention and like an electric flash the thought entered his mind, "I wonder if she is mad because I never asked her to take a bicycle ride with me. I'll do it if it takes my last dollar." Without a second's hesitation he walked into the store and ordered a Monarch ladies' wheel sent to her house, first tying his card to it.

That same evening he received a polite note asking him to call again. He went and two minutes sufficed to make him the happiest man in Honolulu, the cause of the whole trouble being that the young lady suspected him of taking other girls out bicycle riding and was jealous accordingly. There will be another wedding in Honolulu in a few weeks.

While we are on the subject of girls and wheels we will state that we are prepared to furnish bicycles enough, for every engaged girl in Honolulu or even for every girl who wants to be engaged.

Ladies and misses are cordially invited to call at the store and examine the Monarch wheels, for which we are sole agents for the Hawaiian Islands.
